Railroad Guide.

On and after June 22, 1880, passenger trains will leave Clarksville as follows:

Going North—7:20 a.m. and 4:25 p.m.
Going South—7:20 a.m. and 7:25 p.m.

A MEETING of the democratic executive committee is hereby called to meet at the office of Quarles, Daniel & Goodpasture, Tues., Sept. 21, at 11 o'clock. By order of WM. M. DANIEL, Ch'm'n. T. M. RILEY, Sec'y.

THE stewards of Asbury circuit will meet at Mt. Pleasant the fourth Sunday in this month, immediately after morning preaching.

DR. PLANN will preach at the Cumberland Presbyterian church to-morrow morning at 11 o'clock, and to-morrow night at 7:30.

REMEMBER the barbecue and public speaking at McAdow next Saturday, the 25th. Col. Bailey will address the people.

WE have to apologize for the scarcity of local matter this week, the unwelcome amount of political intelligence crowding everything else out.

EX-MAYOR SULLIVAN is having his grocery store on Franklin street run back to Strawberry street, and, when completed, it will be one of the best business houses in the city.

HON. JOHN M. FLEMING, democratic elector for the state at large, will address the people of Clarksville, Sept. 28. Hon. A. Taylor, his competitor, is invited to meet him.

REV. DR. WADDELL will preach at the Methodist church Sunday morning at the usual hour for service. The pastor Rev. Mr. Barbee will preach at night.

REV. J. D. BARBEE will preach at Salem on the Southside, to-morrow, (Sunday) at 11 o'clock. The meeting will be protracted during the week by the pastor, Rev. J. W. Cullom.

PROF. W. F. SHROPSHIRE died at his residence in Ohio county a few days ago. He was a native of this city, and his untimely death is deeply regretted by his many friends here.

THE Greenwood cemetery company have recently had substantial stone posts put up at the front gate of the cemetery. Mr. John Conroy did the job, and, like all of his work, it is done well.

THE Nashville presbytery of the Cumberland Presbyterian church met at West Harpeth church, near Franklin, Tenn., yesterday. Rev. Mr. Martin, of this city, left yesterday morning to be in attendance.

A Grand Lodge of colored Odd Fellows was organized at Nashville at a convention held there on the 10th inst. John D. Bailey and W. F. Fife attended as delegates from this city. The latter was elected deputy grand master.

THE Rev. J. D. Barbee has been preaching a series of doctrinal sermons this week in South Clarksville. By request he will repeat these sermons at the Methodist church on Franklin street, beginning to-morrow (Sunday) night. The first sermon of the series is devoted to a discussion of the Divinity of Jesus Christ.

MR. WILSON, in his speech at Erin, made a charge which, if he is a gentleman, he will either prove or withdraw. He charged that several papers in the state have offered to support him for governor if he would pay them various sums from $200 to $500. We have no doubt of the falsity of the charge, and demand proof.

Wagon Making and Blacksmithing.

MR. I. D. Long and Maj. Nelson Gardner have opened a wagon and blacksmith shop at the foot of Commerce street, near the Elephant warehouse. They are both experienced workmen and will guarantee satisfaction. Give them a call.

Piano Tuning.

Messrs. J. C. Boden & Son, two well known gentlemen who have for years visited this city for the purpose of tuning pianos and organs, are now in the city and are prepared to do any work of the kind, and guarantee satisfaction. Orders left at Owen & Moore's Music store, or the Southern Hotel will receive prompt attention.

Intelligence from Maine.

THE intelligence from Maine comes something like that from Louisiana and Florida at the last presidential election. First it was stated that the fusion candidate was elected governor by 2,000 or 3,000 majority and three seats in congress sold to the republican party, and the legislature either anti-republican or very equally divided, and a thorough defeat was acknowledged by all the republican organs; then came news that all was to be reversed, that the republicans were in possession of the returns, and that no democratic victories were to be allowed. Angry discontent is prevalent on both sides—we reserve our opinion till we know more about it.

BOWLING GREEN.

The Agricultural Fair—The Competitive Drill—The C. G. G. Second Best.

On Friday, the 10th, this editor found himself in Bowling Green in company with the Clarksville City Guards, and a number of visitors from Tennessee and Kentucky, attracted by the annual agricultural fair of Warren county and its various objects of interest, such as prize bulls, Kentucky farmers and their blooming wives and daughters, wheels of fortune, Sells Brothers' circus, and, above all, the competitive drill of three military companies.

The arrival at Bowling Green was signalled by the order "fall in," sharply spoken by Commodore Cooks, whereupon C. G. G. from all parts of the state formed in the center, making our exit before military movements should commence. Exhilarating strains from a fine brass-band, the shouts of an innumerable crowd around the depot and the presence of the Bowling Green Guards were sufficient proof that our boys were not unexpected. They were escorted up to the Merchants' Hotel by their Bowling Green friends, and, after a plentiful meal there, proceeded to a beautiful grove in the suburbs, where they pitched their tents.

We found that the town was so full that it was doubtful whether a roosting-place could be found, but under the guidance of a young friend we succeeded in obtaining a shake-down at the Girard House, under the hospitable care of Mrs. Peenik.

Next morning we visited our military friends at their camp, where we found them giving an extra polish to their guns in preparation for the drill, which was to come off at the fair-grounds at 11 a. m. It was 2 p. m., however, before the Bowling Green Guards marched into the ring. They have been drilling a much shorter time than either of the other competing companies, but they made an excellent record, and certainly assumed a smart soldierly aspect. They were repeatedly cheered by the vast crowd, and, after an hour's drill, marched off, and the C. G. G. marched in. They had a preliminary drill in the public square the evening before, and acquitted themselves so well that bets were high in their favor.

The drilling was by written program, which was handed to the captains on their appearance on the ground. It was the first time that the convention had drilled in this way, and the distraction occasioned by his having to look at his program and his company at the same time will possibly account for a single break which marred the perfection of an otherwise perfect drill. This alone probably accounts for the C. G. G. coming off second best, which they did by a very few marks.

The Porter Rifles now drilled with equal skill and better luck and obtained the first prize, and the acclamations of a vast crowd, which, by the by, their defeated competitors heartily joined. The actual score was as follows: Porter Rifles, 210; Clarksville City Guards, 204; Bowling Green Guards, 190.

No jealousy or ill-feeling existed, and we are specially rejoiced by our own boys to acknowledge the liberal hospitality and kind treatment they experienced at the hands of the B. G. G. and especially the courtesy and impartiality of the United States officers who acted as judges.

Many Clarksville and Montgomery county men were at the fair, among whom we came up with Mr. Jesse Bailey, who was endeavoring to purchase blooded stock for his farms in Montgomery and Sumner counties. He says the Warren county farms have as fine stock as any in the state, but they don't want to sell. They have not only recently begun and have not yet enough for their purposes. Through his introduction we formed the acquaintance of a Mr. Hill, an extensive stock farmer, from whom and from the ladies of whose family we received hospitality of the true Kentucky stamp.

At night we attended the splendid circus of Sells Brothers. We have never seen such a circus or such a crowd in attendance. The unprecedented appearance of two living hippopotami in the ring, the vast train of elephants and camels in procession, the daring and brilliant riding of Mr. Robinson, and all the other manifestations of skill, courage and strength, elicited reiterated shouts of applause from an audience numbered by thousands.

Late to bed and early to rise, for we had to start for Nashville at five in the morning, that we might help to put John House through for congress.

Amusements.

Elder's Opera House will be alive next week, two attractive entertainments in hand. Calcutta's original Georgia minstrels will play on Monday and Tuesday nights, the 20th and 21st inst., with twenty artists and four end men, and above all their golden cornet band, which is the finest brass band that has ever visited Clarksville. They need no commendation from us. Elder's Opera House will be crowded.

Frank Mayo's Davy Crockett company on Wednesday and Thursday with Frank A. Tannehill as David, and the beautiful and accomplished Miss Zula Fath as Louisa. The performance will be varied on Thursday night by the production of the well known sensational play of the streets of New York. A first class metropolitan company supports the leading actors, who are well known as distinguished artists throughout the United States.

A MISSION will be given in the Catholic church next week, to commence on Sunday, the 19th. Two Jesuit Fathers of Chicago, Rev. Fathers Verdin and Bougie, will conduct the mission. The opening sermon will be delivered at the high mass on Sunday, commencing at 10 o'clock. As the church is small, every effort will be made to accommodate all who attend, as all are cordially invited.

THE CONGRESSIONAL CONVENTION.

How We Nominated House Again.

This convention met in the Nashville court-house last Saturday, the 11th inst. We will not bore our readers this time with elections of temporary and permanent chairmen and secretaries, committees on credentials and basis of representation, etc., etc. Let us be sufficient to say that the convention was in order and according to immemorial precedent.

Substantially this was the action: Delegates from this county and from that and the other met one another in the court-house at Nashville, and the word was, "Well, I suppose it is John House again," and the answer, "Of course it is; we are instructed so for House," and another, "Oh, John House, of course," and the answer, "Of course, John House." It was manifest from the first that the convention had nothing to do but to nominate House by acclamation. Several speeches were made eulogistic of our popular representative and in approval of his course as a legislator, and the formal business was then completed. One matter, however, outside the nomination was attended to. An application had been made to Col. House to go to Ohio and aid in the canvass in that state. This application he referred to the convention through a friend, saying that his services were at the disposal of the people of the sixth district; that that district had a right to all he could do, and he would not undertake anything outside of it without the sanction of the convention. He believed that work was needed in Ohio, and if the convention sanctioned it he would go, reserving to himself time to visit every county in this district before the election.

A motion was then made that the consent of the sixth district be given, which was carried unanimously. Nothing was then left to be done but the nomination of House by acclamation, which was done with enthusiasm.

Col. House was then sent for and briefly addressed the convention. He said that he was unable and, after an hour's drill, marched off, and the C. G. G. marched in. They had a preliminary drill in the public square the evening before, and acquitted themselves so well that bets were high in their favor.

On Tuesday night a large number of men took violent possession of the jail, shot a white man named Ramsey, who was in on charge of shooting a lady, and took out Bell and Jamison, two of the negroes arrested for the LaPrade murder, and hung them within two miles of the jail. We have heard rumors that more of the prisoners were lynched on Wednesday night. It is believed that there are a gang of desperadoes in that part of the country bent on wholesale murder and robbery.

It is said that the negroes confessed before their death to the murder, and to having tortured and mutilated their victim in order to force him to produce his money.

An Important Correction.

In our report of the county convention we gave the wrong vote, an entirely erroneous account of the significance of the voting for Messrs. Dunlavy and Jones respectively. It was made to appear that the transaction was a contest between the state-credit and low-tax delegates in the convention. We have now to state that there was no such contest, but that—

First—Several gentlemen hitherto known as state-credit men voted for Mr. Jones, and many of the opposite persuasion for Mr. Dunlavy.

Second—Mr. Jones, as well as Mr. Dunlavy, pledged himself to sustain the action of the Nashville convention and to vote for Col. Bailey as senator.

Third—Mr. Jones would have received the united support of the democracy if nominated, as Mr. Dunlavy will.

Fourth—There was no state-credit or low-tax in the matter, but all were united democrats.

NICE weather this for Pictures, and McCormac is making some of the very finest work and at prices as low as any gallery in the country. Go up to see him about it.

In Memoriam.

FANNIE D. PARKER was born Oct. 16, 1828. She was faithful in all the experiences of womanhood—married, with children, widow, and again married. She was twice married; first to Wm. Whitlock, Oct. 1, 1848, and again to John A. Keese, Jan. 1, 1850, who continued most lovingly her great loss. At Salem church (Baptist) in Christian county, she found infinite peace in Christ the Lord. She was a devoted friend, and she left a consistent Christian life, and died in the faith of the gospel, Aug. 18, 1880. For two years past—some years to her—she was afflicted with rheumatism, and every morning within reach was resorted to for her recovery, but in vain, mortal pains claiming her for its own. She was a true woman, and extremely sensitive to pain, and hence had a horror of the pang of death beyond almost any one ever known. But her life was a prayer for supporting grace in the dying hour. Sixteen months ago, the last time she was seen, she was entirely devoted to God, the Bible and prayer; that nothing of a worldly or frivolous nature had any longer interest for her. She was bright and cheerful, and full of love to all who came near her. When questioned about visiting us, she replied, "I am in Clarksville, Ky. I do not like to come in like a coming in." When informed for her picture, she said she had sent for her last picture. She was a devoted friend, consistent Christian, and modest, unassuming, lady-like woman, whose every impulse was to please her loved husband. (All praise to her husband whose death she mourned with grief and unfeigned mourning during her protracted illness, were unexpressed; and to her husband, who was a devoted friend, and kind attention, leaving their own families to spend alternate weeks and months with her.)

Satanic preaching her death was a costly wage. She had prayed time and again to feel once more as she did when her arms were extended, and she doubted her conversion at any time, but still for the thirty years intervening her conversion and the Sunday morning, she had never denied the reality of that hour, and that day, she lifted her hand and shouted of old Salem. That the Lord had obtained the blessing! I am just as happy as I can be, or ever was. She exhorted her friends to meet her in Heaven; sent messages of love to all; and said, "I hate to go and leave you in your loneliness, but I must go, and I want you to get religion and meet me in Heaven." Then she made arrangements for her burial, selecting the time, place and person to attend to each particular pertaining to it, and requesting that brother Hanner preach her funeral sermon—which seemed to do everything. Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, a. m., Aug. 18, 1880, she calmly and sweetly fell asleep in Jesus, at her home near Garrettsburg, Ky. Perfect love had cut out all fear.

For her surviving friends, let me say—"Fannie is not dead, but sleeping." May we so live that our lives may close so peacefully and peacefully as hers did; and may we glide down the stream of time to the haven of perfect rest.

MR. POLK G. JOHNSON, C. and M., will sell to-day, Saturday, at the door of the chancery offices, eleven tracts of the Tennessee Furman lands on the south side of the river. He will also sell at the same time and place the residence of the late Judge King, on Greenwood avenue. This property is valuable and will be sold for whatever it will bring. Now is the time to buy a splendid residence.

SHOCKING EVENTS IN ROBERT-ERTON COUNTY.

Murder with Torture—Superstition and Terrible Distribution.

About the end of last month a well-known gentleman of Sadlersville, in Robertson county, named LaPrade, a bachelor and of eccentric habits, was found to be missing, and a careful search was instituted by his brother, Mr. Gus LaPrade, and his sister, Mrs. Dunn. This search was prosecuted until the body was found in a sink-hole near the residence of the deceased.

A remarkable circumstance connected with this search was the part taken by a negro woman, a reputed fortune-teller, in discovering the hiding-place of the body. She was visited by Mr. Dunn and Mr. Walter Hunt, and after some juggling with the cards, she told them many circumstances which were afterwards corroborated by facts; described minutely the murder, described the general appearance of the murdered man, and two negroes to whom she attributed the murder, and the place where the body was deposited. This woman was a professed fortune-teller, and was a negro who lives by gambling, and is a thoroughly bad character. Of course we disabard at once the theory of any supernatural means, but it is obvious that this woman was an accomplice, if not before, at least after the fact.

The body was found by Messrs. T. M. Rust and James Hill in a sink-hole some little distance from Mr. Dunn's residence. It was shockingly mutilated, and was in a state of torture during life, and the back of the skull beaten in.

Eight negroes altogether were arrested on suspicion of this deed and sent to Springfield (the county-seat) for safe-keeping. We have not been informed what was the evidence on which they were arrested.

On Tuesday night a large number of men took violent possession of the jail, shot a white man named Ramsey, who was in on charge of shooting a lady, and took out Bell and Jamison, two of the negroes arrested for the LaPrade murder, and hung them within two miles of the jail. We have heard rumors that more of the prisoners were lynched on Wednesday night. It is believed that there are a gang of desperadoes in that part of the country bent on wholesale murder and robbery.

It is said that the negroes confessed before their death to the murder, and to having tortured and mutilated their victim in order to force him to produce his money.

Stocks and the Cabin House and Celebrity signs. J. E. WARFIELD.

THE CHRONICLE should have given the Leaf credit for that "low-tax watermelon" item in its last issue. The item has been generally copied all over the state, but with proper credit. True, it is getting nearly old enough to go on its own responsibility, but we know it is good, and the Chronicle would have been printed. Hence we want credit, and besides our neighbor lays himself open to the suspicion of being fond of water-melons, which charge of course, no boy was ever guilty of.

The item in question was first seen by us in a Nashville paper, and seems to have gone the rounds since; we ourselves cut it from the Henderson Ky. News, in which paper no credit was given. It had become public property according to all journalistic precedent before either the Leaf or the Chronicle handled it.

OUR warmest sympathy is tendered to Mr. Duncan Marr on the death of his youngest son Morgan, aged 18 years. He died on Thursday evening from spinal disease, probably originating in a buggy accident he sustained some months ago. The burial took place at the city cemetery yesterday evening at 4 o'clock, largely attended by the young friends of the deceased, who was very popular with young men of his age.
